Mobile apps AutoCAD is available for iOS and Android mobile devices. The iOS version of AutoCAD, named AutoCAD Lite, was first released on February 2, 2014. It was designed to be lightweight to allow users to interact with drawings in CAD workflows by providing mobile access to features such as automatic tracing, snapping, editing, batch-editing and over 100 other features. In the summer of 2014, AutoCAD Lite was rebranded to AutoCAD iOS, re-launching AutoCAD Mobile for the first time since its release in 2008. With the move, AutoCAD Mobile also took advantage of the new AutoCAD experience built from AutoCAD LT. In March 2013, Autodesk announced the availability of AutoCAD Mobile 2 for iOS and Android. This version offers similar functionality to the former version, but provides several enhancements to the design interface, such as the capability to edit the name of a text box to a precise one and connect to a local database. In addition, the CAD experience has been improved, with the introduction of AutoLISP. With AutoCAD Mobile 2, a command can be executed directly in the app and with a single click saved as a custom macro, in addition to creating a local macro and import/export of local macros. Another new feature is the ability to integrate 3D models from popular CAD applications (such as Autodesk's 123D Catch) into AutoCAD using CAD Links. AutoCAD Mobile 2 was rebranded AutoCAD Mobile in the summer of 2014. In March 2014, Autodesk introduced AutoCAD Mobile 3. This new version offers enhanced 3D and GIS functionality, including 3D modeling and editing of models. A recent addition is the ability to export to PDF and Excel. AutoCAD Mobile is available for Android devices. In April 2014, Autodesk introduced AutoCAD Mobile Design 2. This version of AutoCAD Mobile offers the ability to draw custom components (including annotations) as well as Autodesk 360 Viewer for three-dimensional views. With the release of AutoCAD 2016, AutoCAD Mobile 2 was retired. A new version of AutoCAD for iOS, named AutoCAD Mobile 2016, has been released in December 2016. This version is available free of charge for iPad and Android devices. AutoCAD 360 Experience The Autodesk Exchange Apps feature allowed developers 5b5f913d15
