Freeware Flash online game, known as Yoku, has released their new version 9.2.0, just today. The latest version is now available for direct download, and unlike most other Flash games, this one is completely free to play. So if you think you are up for a new and interesting Flash game, then just head over to their website and give this game a try. Yoku is a fast-paced action/puzzle game in which you have to avoid obstacles while collecting coins. Your goal is to guide your Yoku to the exit of each level. When all levels are completed you win the game! The idea behind this Flash game is great. It looks fast paced, but as you play on, you realize you're not moving very fast. You know what I mean – after every second or two you realize you're not moving very fast. But this game is still fun and enjoyable, just nothing special. The gameplay is very simple – a horizontal line with coins on the side of it. The coins drop down as you go, so you must move through them as you go. Your goal is to collect all the coins, without hitting any walls or anything else. When you reach the goal, you win the game. You have the ability to move your Yoku up, down, left, or right. You can also jump over the coins, but not very far. You can also rotate your Yoku to help you out – just move the mouse clockwise or anti-clockwise to make the coin go around you. The difficulty of the game levels increases as you go further, so be prepared for a tough time. But that's how it should be – this game is addicting and fun, so go for it. Another free Flash game called "Toxtris" has been released by Independent Games Festival. This new game is available for download. If you haven't heard of Toxtris, it is a puzzle game where you have to build lines using the tiles available on the board. The board is in a spiral shape, and the tiles have colors. Each player starts with three initial tiles, and they are arranged in the spiral. The task of the player is to connect adjacent tiles by building lines. You are able to click on any tile you want, and it will move towards the tile you clicked. This tile then belongs to you, so you can drag it
