As a result, it is able to fulfill the requirements of the ECE-R1015 standard for a wide range of passenger car diesel engines. The ACP i-Pro® sensor features a high precision and is resistant to environmental influences. As a result, it can be used in different engine compartments and in different regions in the world. The intake air pressure sensor is available as a 3-wire version as well as a 4-wire version. The difference between the versions lies in the wiring. The 3-wire version is suitable for installation in all right-angled sensor housings and is most common in the market. The 4-wire version is, however, more suitable for mounting in application areas where the housing of a sensor is rotated or bent. The size of the sensor is also different: The 3-wire version has a length of 56 mm, while the 4-wire version is 55 mm long. Both are installed in the intake manifold, or in the air filter housing.
