Follow us on Twitter! Join us on Facebook! published:10 Apr 2016 views:1787973 Published by: Kraven Manor is a story-driven, third-person, horror survival experience, where you will help Victor investigate the sinister goings-on in a decrepit mansion, facing numerous perils and dangers. Although an edgy, horror experience, Kraven Manor is also a story about light and dark - the fight against the shadows and the belief in the ultimate triumph of good over evil. While Kraven Manor is still in early development, we decided to go ahead and release the game to allow us to get the kinks worked out of it, and because we do not want to spend the next two years on it to get a stable release game. All aspects of the game are still under active development, which will be a major focus of the project, so the game is a little rough around the edges. The game is largely scripted through out, there are no dialog boxes, or interactive objects in place for things to actually happen. We haven't decided on an overall story that we want to do with it, since it's a very early state of development. The gameplay is mostly focused on getting a good foundation in place for the action-oriented gameplay, as well as story. The game is designed as a 3rd person survival horror, where the player will find themselves in a very dark, mysterious mansion, that is slowly falling apart being many hints of paranormal activity. They will be confronting a number of enemies, and hard situations, and finding themselves in, as well as trying to solve many of the mansion's mysteries. published:22 May 2018 views:36256 The animation style of this game is similar to the art style of Kingdom Hearts. The purpose of this is to be as simplistic as possible and yet able to be tremendously beautiful. ## What's new:

Kraven Manor was a historic manor house situated on the river Ouse at Gambier, Northamptonshire, England. It has been known by many names over the centuries including Leybourne Priory, St William's Priory, Gambier Priory, Little Jarrow Priory, and St Nicholas Chapel. The manor house, also known as the Priory Farm, lies within the Wy fair at Gambier Priory civil parish. The original site of the Priory was leased to the community for a period of time in the 12th century, and was continued to be inhabited until it was demolished in 1444. In the 16th century the site was acquired by Sir William Wolston, who named the land after his wife, 'Lady Kraven'. In this period of time their home was surrounded by the Knights Templar's Temple. The medieval priory was converted into Wolston Manor, a merchant's house, in 1604. Gambier Manor then belonged to Sir William Wolston's grandson, Sir Benedict Wolston. The manor house was redesigned by Sir Christopher Wren in 1692, providing the base for Wolston's sumptuous interiors. It was completely rebuilt between 1752 and 1756. William Beauvoir-Crakanough acquired the house from Wolston in 1755. The building was completely altered by William of Wychwood in the mid-19th century. The manor house was partially destroyed by fire in 1901, with works from the early 20th century viewed as intrusive. Wolston Manor was passed to Henry Crakanough in 1922 and stood empty for some time before becoming derelict. It was demolished in 1976, with its former site becoming a public house called Wolston Grange. Wolston Grange was sold to Hubert Chantrey in 1969, and its pub licence was revoked in 1992. It served as a youth club for over 20 years. The building was restored and converted into the Ouse Valley Studios, then a guest house, in 2003.
